
Do you have a hard time saying “no” to people? This chapter makes you realize that using caution in selecting your associates and learning to say “no” more often may speed you on your path to success.
